

STRAIGHT TALK 1

HE

You lost your job? Well, that's just great Cheryl! What are we supposed to live on now?

SHE

Why don't you try looking for a job again?

HE

Very funny. In this stinking town? There ain't no jobs in this town and I'm sick of looking.

SHE

Well, maybe this is the right time for us to move to Chicago. We'll just pack our bags and move to the big city. What do you say?

HE

I dunno, Cheryl. You just wanna pick up and leave everything and leave everyone, all of our friends?

SHE

This town is dying and we're dying with it. You been out of work for, how long now? Ten months, nine? I know you've looked hard but it's like you've just given up.

HE

Chicago. You tell me what is so Goddamned great about Chicago.

SHE

Well, what's so great about Chicago is that it's not Flat River.

HE

Jesus Christ, Cheryl. You can't even keep some half-assed job pushing some old farts around a dance floor. Everything you do gets screwed up. I gotta get out of here.

SHE

Where are you going?

STRAIGHT TALK 2

HE
To get a couple of beers.

SHE
You got a whole six-pack left in the fridge.

HE
I'm goin' out, Cheryl.

SHE
Steve, I'm leaving. I'm leaving. If you don't come with me, I'll go alone.

HE
Well, go on then.

SHE
What about us getting married?

HE
Ain't you been married enough? I'll see you when I get home.

SHE
I won't be here.

HE
You wanna bet?
