In a quiet spot, Allison and Devin sit with MR. WYNN and MRS. WYNN (30s, professional), Trevor's parents. Mrs. Wynn cries quietly into her husband's shoulder, while Mr. Wynn struggles to keep his own feelings at bay.

MR. WYNN

The doctor said it's difficult to make a prognosis at this time.

ALLISON

We're so sorry, Mr. Wynn.

MR. WYNN

The doctor told us Trevor had a heart attack. Caused by an overdose of dextroamphetamine.

Allison and Devin react.

ALLISON

Dextroamphetamine? Does Trevor have ADHD?

Mrs. Wynn frowns through her tears.

MRS. WYNN

No. Why?

ALLISON

That's what the drug's usually prescribed for.

DEVIN

But if you don't have the condition, the body can be overstimulated and react badly.

MRS. WYNN

There's been a mistake. Trevor has a heart murmur, so he would never take anything like that. He can't even have caffeine.

ALLISON

Mr. and Mrs. Wynn, I mean no
disrespect, but I have teenagers,
too. This reaction to the drug generally indicates long-term use.

MR. WYNN

(getting angry)

If he took that, someone made him.
Trevor is a good boy. A smart boy.
He knows better.

MRS. WYNN

And he doesn't keep secrets.

Allison and Devin exchange a quick look.

MR. WYNN

Please. You must find out what really happened to our son.

ALLISON

We promise you, we will.

END

As Mrs. Wynn sags into Mr. Wynn's arms, and Devin and Allison share their pain,

FADE OUT.
