DEAN

Why the hell me?

WES

Because your my father dammit

DEAN

You know damn well that I am not your father. All I am is the sperm donor.

WES

Yeah, well technically you are my father. You and Mom had a fucking good time in the back of that chevy, so yeah you are technically my father.

DEAN

What about John. He's the one who brought you up. What about him? Get him to do it.

WES

He won't do it.

DEAN

Then get your mother to do it

WES

She just breaks down and cries. She won't even talk about it. I think she believes if it isn't spoken, nothing will happen.

DEAN

What about your sisters? Surely they'll do it for you.

WES

Karen has turned to a radical catholic, and Lisa, well Lisa couldn't handle the aftermath.

DEAN

I can't believe your asking me to do this. What ever gave you the notion, to hunt me down, to find me, and then ask me to do this. This is just unbelievable.

WES

Dean I'm at wits end. I just have nothing left. And I feel so strong about this, that I became desperate, and you were my last hope.

DEAN

Even if I did do this for you, I have no legal right. You can believe that your mother is going to contest this right to the end.

WES

I thought about that, and I have it all set. I am going to give you power of attorney, giving you the right to say when they can shut off the machines.

DEAN

Isn't there any other way. I mean there is research and breakthroughs happening every day. Don't you even want to try?

WES

Dean I have thought about this long and hard. I just can't live with it anymore. I know that I am going to die. I'm tired of being their guinea pig. Researchers. I do give them credit, but I don't think they know how much they are hurting rather than helping. I'm at the point that I don't want to go on.. I see mom, and she tries to be strong, but if you look in her eyes, you can see her soul, and that pain, I don't want to see anymore.

DEAN

Do you think she will have less pain when your gone? Because if you do, you are dead wrong.

WES

No but at least it will finally be a closure for her, and she can finally continue on living.

DEAN

You are not making this easy for me. But if that is your final wish, I will honor it.

WES

Thank you

DEAN

My God, I hope I'm doing the right thing
