DEMIR

The vase was damaged. But we have something even more valuable that, for your understanding, we will give to you for an even better price. The Mask of Warka.

VOLKOV

(over)

I should imagine it? Where is it?

DEMIR

Where it can't be damaged like the vase. The price we agreed on --

(over)

A hundred thousand. No more.

DEMIR

What if the price became nothing? Zero. This mask, which is easily worth a million. In exchange for this price reduction you, or someone of your choice, would provide to us a service.

VOLKOV

What kind of service?

DEMIR

We have an untrustworthy partner. I'm sure you can appreciate how...

UZAY

(over)

Terrible.

DEMIR

Terrible that is. We would ask that you end the partnership.

VOLKOV

You want me to end the partnership.

UZAY

Permanently.

VOLKOV

Why me? Why not you?

DEMIR

You have no connection. We do. He will be with us when we deliver the mask.

UZAY

He doesn't think we can do anything without him.

(smiles)

Not even this.

4.22 INT. GRAHAM'S APARTMENT - DAY (D19)

Graham opens the door revealing Hernandez, suitcase in hand.

HERNANDEZ

See? You're not the only surprise visit guy. I decided you were right. More opportunities down here.

GRAHAM

(re: apt)

Crash as long as you want.

Hernandez enters, notes the tiny size and dearth of furniture.

HERNANDEZ

Dude, I like you, but I ain't sharing a bed.

GRAHAM

You get the whole bed. I'll stay with a friend.

HERNANDEZ

If I had known I'd be throwing you out of your own place --

(over)

Forget it. Brothers, remember?

As Graham starts grabbing some clothes...

HERNANDEZ

How are you doing? Better?

GRAHAM

A little, yeah. I think I am. You got any job prospects lined up?
