

SIBLING RIVALRY 4 - 1

JAN

Guess what? I met this guy, I think I really like him.

KATHY

You always think you like them for twenty four hours.

JAN

You always do this.

KATHY

Do what?

JAN

Whenever something good happens you have to find something bad to say about me.

KATHY

That's not true.

JAN

Then try being happy for me for once, okay?

KATHY

Okay. So tell me about him.

JAN

Well, he's not like the men I usually date.

KATHY

He has a job?

JAN

Yeah. And you know we haven't known each other that long, but we talked all night on the 'phone. Get this, he loves fish. Not only that but he has a tank. It's small, you know, but he says he wants to get a bigger one. He sounds really committed to his fish.

KATHY

That's nice.

JAN

We're getting to know each other. He told me about his two old girlfriends, I told him about my past relationships. Oh, and the neatest thing is, I owe it all to you.

SIBLING RIVALRY 4 - 2

KATHY

What do you mean?

JAN

I met him at your place last night.

KATHY

Last night?

JAN

Yeah. After you all left he came around investigating a crank call.

KATHY

Does he work for the telephone company?

JAN

Nope. He's a cop.

KATHY

A policeman? There was a policeman in my house last night.

JAN

Yep, and I am going to be at his house tonight.

KATHY

Why didn't you tell me this?

JAN

I forgot.

KATHY

Does Harry know?

JAN

No, I was going to call you guys and let you know but Wilbur called, that's his name, Wilbur, and we talked all night. So I thought I'd tell you today.

KATHY

This is just like you!

JAN

It's no big deal. Only he still needs to talk to you.

SIBLING RIVALRY 4 - 3

KATHY
Me? Why?

JAN
There was this crank call made and he says they traced it back to your house.

KATHY
What do you mean by a crank call?

JAN
A 911 call.

KATHY
Oh Lord!

JAN
Don't worry, I told him it was a mistake.

KATHY
Did he believe you?

JAN
Of course, why wouldn't he? Look, Wilbur needs to talk to you about this crank call on account of he's up for Police Chief and he wants to cover all his bases. I don't want you to say anything bad about me, okay? I really like this guy. All right?

KATHY
Okay.

JAN
What's wrong?

KATHY
Nothing. Nothing.

JAN
What's the matter with you? Are you okay?

KATHY
Yes. I'm just a little emotional. I missed choir practice this morning and I just hate myself.

JAN
I may sound like a broken record, but I know how to cure you of these moods of yours.

SIBLING RIVALRY 4 - 4

KATHY
I don't think so.

JAN
You should get rid of Harry, and have an affair.

KATHY
Oh God!

JAN
Look, as soon as you and Harry clear this up then you won't be so jealous of me.

KATHY
I am not jealous of you.

JAN
Oh yeah, then why are you upset.

KATHY
I'm upset because Harry's brother died.

JAN
Oh please, you didn't even know Charles.

KATHY
I knew him.

JAN
You knew of him, but you didn't really know him.

KATHY
I really knew him! I killed him.

JAN
Oh come on Kathy.

KATHY
Are you listening to me God damn it!?

JAN
What are you talking about?

KATHY
I knew him in the Biblical sense.

JAN
What?

SIBLING RIVALRY 4 - 5

KATHY

I met him and we did it.

JAN

You had sex with your brother-in-law?

KATHY

It was not sex. It was good!

JAN

Oh, I don't believe this! Well, you said you killed him. How'd you kill him?

KATHY

Sex.

JAN

Sex?

KATHY

I had an affair because you told me to!

JAN

Kathy, this is so bizarre.

KATHY

I know. I must have been too powerful for him. He had himself a heart attack.

JAN

While you were...

KATHY

After. I think it was after. Oh, God, I hope it was after.
